| UPS   | VS  | AVR   |     |
|---|-----|---|-----|
| UPS is an Uninterrupted Power Supply. A UPS can be an excellent source of clean and stable power and to cope with unstable voltage. As not all UPS's are the same, we only use True Online, Double Conversion and Pure Sine Wave models that are individually tested. |     | AVR is an Automatic Voltage Regulator a.k.a. Automatic Voltage Stabilizer and does exactly what the name states. Typically an AVR uses a Variable Transformer to modify the input voltage for a more stable and safe output to protect the equipment that is connected to it. |     |
